

We invite your group to experience two of Philadelphia's major Jewish historical and cultural attractions together:

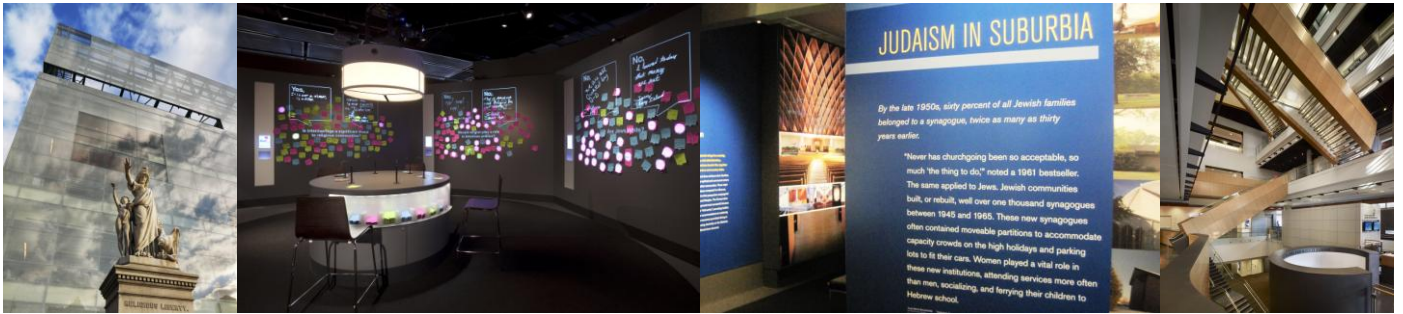

The award-winning

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORY

and

The National Historic Landmark

BETH SHOLOM
An American Synagogue

The Museum's four-floor core exhibition presents more than 350 years of Jewish life in America through original films, artifacts, and interactives, exploring the blessings and challenges of freedom and examining how Jews have shaped and been shaped by this nation. One floor, chronicling the period from 1945 to today, includes the story of Jewish suburban migration and the creation of historically-significant synagogues like Beth Shalom.

Beth Shalom was founded in 1918 in the Logan section of Philadelphia. After Beth Shalom moved to suburban Elkins Park in the 1950s, renowned architect Frank Lloyd Wright accepted the commission to design the new synagogue. Dedicated in 1959 and listed as a National Historic Landmark in 2007, Beth Shalom remains an active, Conservative congregation today.

Call 215.923.3811 x 141 and allow us to arrange a day of learning and discovery for you. All joint visits must be arranged in advance. One month's notice is recommended.

TOTAL TIME = 6 hours* (3 at NMAJH + 1 for travel time + 2 at Beth Shalom)

* Times listed are approximate and depend on visitor preferences, traffic, etc.

TOTAL PRICE = Packages start at $19/person and are available for groups of 15 or more people.