

Tablet

The Scroll

ON VIEW: ALL THE ART YOU NEED TO SEE THIS WEEK

Refugees in Tulsa, beautiful minds in Memphis, chocolate in New York City

By Alexandra Pucciarelli
October 20, 2017 • 10:00 AM

Each week, the Scroll will be highlighting upcoming exhibits, performances, and cultural events around the country.

Philadelphia

The National Museum of American Jewish History's latest exhibit, Sifting Through Ashes, uses contemporary art to connect new audiences to the horrors of the Holocaust. The exhibit features vivid, large-scale oil paintings by landscape painter and photographer Bruce Gendelman, inspired his visit to Auschwitz and Holocaust sites in Ukraine and based on photographs he took there. (On view through Jan. 7, 2018; adult admission $15.)