Pride dinner scheduled

An LGBTQ+ Shabbat dinner to celebrate Pride will be held next month in Center City.

The event is sponsored by J. Proud, a program led by the Jewish Family and Children's Service of Greater Philadelphia.

The event begins with cocktails at 6 p.m. June 3 at the National Museum of American Jewish History, 101 S. Independence Mall East. Tickets are $20 and $14 for students and people 65 and older.

"We are looking forward to having a beautiful Shabbat dinner to celebrate Pride at the National Museum of American Jewish History," said Phoenix Schneider, director of the JFCS's LGBTQ Initiative. "We can look forward to enjoying food catered by Miss Rachel's Pantry and being inspired by our fabulous speaker, Mark Segal. It will certainly be a special evening to remember."
